Did You Know?

- Bacteria thrive in wet areas, such as bath mats that are left on the floor after use. To speed evaporation, hang bath mats to dry.
- In addition to wet feet, poorly fitting shower curtains are one of the biggest causes of water on the bathroom floor. To minimize the likelihood of wet floors and possible injuries, use a non-PVC shower curtain liner that falls inside the tub in addition to the decorative curtain on the outside. Also, keep a nonskid mat by the shower or bath—preferably one that absorbs moisture and stays in place on the floor!
